

Hoffa Attacks Arkansas' Sen. McClellan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa has predicted that the AFL-CIO soon and that the parent union's president, George Meany, will not hold his post much longer.

Hoffa predicted Sunday that the Teamsters would be back in the AFL-CIO "the latter part of next year or the early part of next year."

He said Meany, who was instrumental in expelling the Teamsters from the AFL-CIO, "will be gone just like all men who fail to carry out their responsibilities."

Hoffa and his wife Jo were here to charter an auxiliary to DRIVE, the political education arm of the union. Arkansas is the 11th state they have visited on the DRIVE campaign.

DRIVE stands for Democratic, Republican, Independent voter Education.

Hoffa made his predictions in a news conference. At a Teamsters dinner, he told 500 union members that they were becoming too complacent and that they might lose the gains they have made.

He said anti-labor interests are gaining strength in Congress. And he said if a bill by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., to put transportation unions under anti-trust legislation is passed, Teamsters may lose the right to vote on whether to accept a new contract or strike.

Hoffa took the opportunity of a visit to Arkansas to criticize McClellan, head of the Senate Rack-ets' Committee, as "no good for the country" because of his voting record "against progressive legislation."

Both in the news conference and in his speech, Hoffa criticized Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy. He said Kennedy's request for congressional permission for wiretapping is "the beginning of a controlled society."

Hoffa charged that the attorney general "is out to get anybody to get a headline. Of Robert Kennedy's world tour to improve the image of America, Hoffa said, "We certainly have more qualified and experienced representatives than young Bobby Kennedy."

Hoffa said Arkansas represents the problems of labor in the South, because of its right-to-work law and poll tax, and other factors.

He cited figures showing low wages in a number of occupations in the state, its rank of 40th in per capita income, low salaries paid to teachers, low per-pupil expenditure, low payments for unemployment and workmen's compensation and restrictions on the labor movement.

He said the Hemstead Break-Down collected a total of $3,852.14.

Mrs. Impson expressed appreciation to everyone for making the drive possible. She especially praised the volunteer workers and the City Police.

Margie Harrie, Secretary of the Women Bowling group and Jamie Russell, head of the ABC and E. L. Archer, Gaslight manager, expressed thanks to everyone for their fine support. The tourney spill $75.30 between Nevada and Hemstead and the Gaslight Bowl paid expenses of the meet.

Here's the Hemstead Break-Down:

State Population Loss Is Halted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Recent Census Bureau reports indicate the Arkansas population decline has been halted with a gain of 53,000 persons recorded during the past two years.

Through 1959, the Census Bureau showed Arkansas' population continuing to dip while the University of Arkansas contended the downward trend was reversed in 1957.

The Census Bureau estimates that as of last July 1 the Arkansas population had reached 1,797,000 persons, a 9,000 increase over July 1, 1960.

From April 1, 1959 to April 1, 1960, the state gained 44,000 persons, the bureau reported.

Cities Want Time in Arkla Rate Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Attorneys for cities fighting Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company's 1961 rate increase asked the Arkansas Supreme Court today for additional time to file briefs in the case.

The court took the request under advisement. Court rules give an appellant 40 days after filing of the appeal to submit a brief. The appeal in this case was filed Jan. 3.

The cities are appealing from a Pulaski Chancery Court order upholding Public Service Commission approval of the increase, which amounted to about 77 cents a month for customers in each city on Arkla's main gas system.

Motions for additional time customarily are granted by the Supreme Court.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Paul Ward, said trial evidence was insufficient to prove the man, L. C. Poole, intended to rape the girl.

Justice Sam Robinson took vigorous exception to this view in the dissenting opinion. He cited testimony that the man had grabbed the girl on a dark street and dragged her under a bridge.

Robinson contended the trial jury was entitled to judge whether actions of the attacker demonstrated an intent to rape.

The majority opinion cited several cases in which courts had held that a simple attack on a female did not necessarily prove intent to rape.

Justices George Rose Smith and Neil Bohlinger joined Robinson in the dissent.

In a sidelight, the majority rejected a plea for reversal on grounds that evidence was insufficient to prove Poole committed the assault.

"Testimony raises grave doubts that the appellate (Poole) is the person who committed the assault, (but) we do find substantial evidence from which the jury could find he is," Ward wrote.

In another opinion, the Supreme Court affirmed a Boone Chancery Court ruling that Arkansas and Ozarks Railroad lost its title to right of way in Alpena when it abandoned its line in 1960.

In dispute was a 200-foot wide strip of land through the city.

The Supreme Court also rejected a claim by A. R. Bailey and others to ownership of the land on grounds they possessed abutting property.

The Supreme Court held that a 1901 document which conveyed title of the right of way to the St. Louis and North Arkansas Railroad, predecessor to A and O, gave title only so long as the property was used for a railroad.

In a Carroll County case, the Supreme Court reversed a Chancery Court decision that Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Allen were not entitled to damages from Elmer Overturn, a real estate agent, because a well and spring on a farm they bought through Overturn did not furnish a steady supply of water.

The Supreme Court held Overturn should have told the Allens the well and springs could be depended on only in wet weather.

The Allens paid $5,600 for a 48-acre farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hough.

President Has Delayed Message
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy postponed his message to Congress today on the government's communications satellite policy. He rescheduled it for Wednesday.

The White House gave no explanation for the delay.

In the message, Kennedy is expected to ask for the collaboration of several firms in developing a worldwide communications system.

Conviction Reversed by High Court

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The conviction of a St. Francis County Negro who was sentenced to three years in prison for assault with intent to rape a 14-year-old white girl was reversed today by the Arkansas Supreme Court in a 4-3 decision.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Paul Ward, said trial evidence was insufficient to prove the man, L. C. Poole, intended to rape the girl.

Justice Sam Robinson took vigorous exception to this view in the dissenting opinion. He cited testimony that the man had grabbed the girl on a dark street and dragged her under a bridge.

Poultry Show to Be Held Here

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Poultry Federation has added a fifth district poultry festival for this year.

The federation announced a South Arkansas festival will be held May 12 at El Dorado in addition to district shows at Batesville May 19, Hope May 25, Russellville June 1.

The district shows are preliminary events to the state show June 8-9 in Little Rock.

Vote Rights for 18-Year Olds Favored

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — About the only thing Arkansas' Young Republicans and Young Democrats agreed upon in a televised debate Sunday was that 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote.

On other issues, ranging from President Kennedy's Peace Corps to a minimum wage, they were hopelessly at odds.

The Democrats were represented by Jim Patton and Millas Hale. Patton is president of the Young Democrats of Arkansas. Hale is a past president, an assistant attorney general, and secretary of the Young Democrats of America.

Representing the Republicans were Chuck Wheat, president of the Washington County Republican Club, and Lloyd Pearcy.

The Republicans lashed the Peace Corps as ineffective and said professionals should handle the job. The Democrats said the Corps is arousing the imagination of other nations and is indicative of the dynamics of the President's foreign policy.

The question of a higher standard of living brought out two arguments. The Democrats favored a minimum wage and the Republicans contended that more jobs should be the basis for stabilizing salaries.

The Republicans said Arkansas needs a new constitution, and the best way to handle it is through a constitutional convention. The Democrats suggested that the Arkansas Bar Association study the state's constitutional needs.

The Republicans said more members of their party should be appointed to state offices, but the Democrats said they should adopt an appealing program and try to win elective offices.

The debate was telecast on Little Rock station KTHV.

After the debate, Mrs. E. L. Bishop of Little Rock, national vice chairman of the National States' Rights Party, challenged both the Young Democrats and Young Republicans to a debate with her party's representatives.

"The Republican and the Democratic parties are one and the same international one - workers and are willing to feed on this great country until the last American dollar," she said.

$10,200 Taken in Store Burglary
DARDANELE, Ark. (AP) — Weekend burglars broke into the Simmons Food Store and a nearby service station here and stole an estimated $10,200.

Yell County Sheriff Herman McCormick said approximately $10,000 was taken from a safe in the food store and another $200 from Kook Service Station.

McCormick said both break-ins appeared to be the work of professionals.

Fay Simmons, owner of the grocery store, said the loss was only partially covered by insurance.

The grocery store break-in was discovered Sunday morning by a newsboy making his deliveries.

Cuba Pushes for Anti-U. S. Action in UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba pushed today for anti-U.S. action from the 104-member United Nations to overshadow the anti-Castro action taken last week in the 21-member Organization of American States.

Cuban chief delegate Mario Garcia-Inchauristegui was to open debate in the General Assembly's Political Committee on Cuba's complaint that the United States is planning aggression against her and intervening in her affairs.

He was expected to cite as an example of such intervention President Kennedy's ban on U.S. imports from Cuba, issued Saturday, which is designed to stop the sale of about $35 million worth of Cuban tobacco a year to the United States.

The Cuban delegation was backing a Communist resolution appealing to the United States to end "interference in the internal affairs" of Cuba and "actions directed against the territorial integrity and political independence of Cuba."

The resolution, which Czechoslovakia and Romania introduced, called on the Cuban and U.S. governments to "settle their differences by peaceful means, through negotiations, without recourse to use of force."

U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to address the 104-nation committee Tuesday. His delegation contended that the assembly should not take any action on the Cuban case.

Committee chairman Mario Amadeo of Argentina aimed to steer the committee to a final vote within 10 days. The Czechoslovak - Romanian resolution seemed unlikely to pass. Some diplomats believed some African, Asian or middle-of-the-road Latin American country might introduce a milder substitute with a better chance of getting by.

4 Americans Die in Peru Crash
LIMA, Peru (AP) — Two U.S. scientists and their wives, returning from an Amazon research trip, perished Sunday in the crash of a Peruvian airliner in the mountains of central Peru. All 18 persons aboard the plane were killed.

The twin-engine DC3 of the Faucett Airlines came down in a heavy rainstorm shortly after taking off from Tingo Maria, 135 miles from Lima, on the Huallaga River. Authorities said the plane had been forced to land by the bad weather.

The American victims were identified as Dr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Uram of Newton, Mass.; and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Block. Block and his wife, Margaret, both 50, were protein chemists who co-authored a book on proteins.

Dr. Block was attached to the Boyce-Thompson Institute of New York City and was a consultant for the Borden Co.

Castro Tells Cubans That Communism Will Sweep All Nations in Latin America

By GEORGE ARFELD

HAVANA (AP) — Cheered by a vast throng of Cubans and bolstered by a message from the Kremlin, Fidel Castro brushed off Cuba's impending expulsion from the Inter-American system Sunday night and predicted his kind of revolution would sweep Latin America "like a march of giants."

A throng of Cubans jamming Jose Marti Plaza roared approval as the bearded prime minister assailed President Kennedy as hypocritical and impudent for banning imports from Cuba. U.S. officials in Washington said the ban, chiefly affecting tobacco, will deprive Castro's regime of $35 million a year.

Castro shouted his defiance of the Organization of American States for its 14-1 vote at Punta del Este, Uruguay, last week to oust Cuba from the hemisphere family of nations until it breaks its ties with the Communist bloc. Six nations abstained.

Castro's 2-hour, 40-minute speech came on the eve of a debate in the U.N. political committee on a Communist-sponsored resolution charging the United States is planning aggression against Cuba and meddling in her affairs.

As the crowd gathered for Castro's speech, Soviet Premier Khrushchev messaged a reiteration of Russian support for the Cuban revolution.

"The people of the Soviet Union are always with you, dear Cuban brothers," Khrushchev said. "A growing militant movement of solidarity in all parts of the globe will help the Cuban people frustrate the evil plans of the U.S. imperialists and their hirelings."

Castro followed a similar line. "Revolution is inevitable," he said. "It is determined by the conditions of misery in which man lives in Latin America."

The United States, he said, took a major beating at the Punta del Este conference of Inter-American foreign ministers which ended last Saturday. He said only the U.S. "ministry of colonies" (meaning the 13 anti-Cuban nations) went along with the Kennedy administration's move to get a unanimous Latin-American vote to throw Cuba out of the OAS.

New Chamber President to Take Over

By K. R. RAMANATH

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A student mob stoned the U. S. Embassy and ripped down the American flag today, injuring one employee. The action brought a vigorous American protest.

The students, believed to be pro-Communist, were protesting because a Dutch plane carrying troops to disputed West New Guinea was allowed to refuel on U.S. soil.

The mob action came before reports reached here that the United States had withdrawn permission for Dutch charter planes carrying troops to use U.S. airfields at Anchorage, Alaska; Honolulu and Wake Island.

At the Hague, a communique said Premier Jan de Quay of the Netherlands had expressed his deep disappointment and added that he could not understand the U.S. decision.

The Indonesian news agency Pia said Foreign Minister Subandrio expressed regret about the attack on the embassy although he added he could "well understand the anger and irritation of the Indonesian people caused by the permission granted to Dutch troop-carrying planes to land or American soil."

The agency said several persons had been arrested on suspicion of leading the demonstration. U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones protested the mob attack to the Indonesian Foreign Ministry.

One embassy official, Miss Mary Manchester, a personnel officer, was injured. Several others in the embassy were hit by flying glass.

Shouting and singing, about 100 students believed to be from the student organization dominated by the Communists, hurled stones and sticks at the embassy, and smashed windows of automobiles in the compound.

A U.S. decision to close its airfields to the Dutch troop planes was communicated to the Dutch Foreign Ministry by the American ambassador to The Hague, John Rice, a diplomatic source said. He reported that Rice told State Secretary Hans van Houten the U.S. permission was granted only for a flight last Friday and that landing rights would not be extended for a second chartered flight that had been scheduled for today.

A Dutch commercial airliner believed to be carrying 25 Dutch soldiers in civilian clothes landed in Tokyo Sunday and was searched for weapons. None was found. The plane was en route to West New Guinea.

Last week the Japanese government refused to let a chartered airliner carrying Dutch soldiers land in Japan.

Vicious Right Wing Attacks Are Rapped
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Supercious aroused by ultra-conservatives resulting in vicious attacks on individuals and groups drew fire here Saturday night from Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, spoke at the annual convention of the Arkansas National Guard Association.

He said he had no objection to honest criticism of errors on the part of the State Department but said he resented attacks questioning the loyalty and patriotism of the department or other groups.

Growing disunity among the people as a result of the prolonged Cold War distorts the whole picture and makes it difficult to adopt long-range policies, Fulbright said.

Decisions in a "hot war" don't arouse disunity and question as a Cold War period does, he said.

The junior Arkansas senator, who is seeking re-election this year, said he doesn't feel the federal government "is an enemy of the state governments or the people."

Other speakers included Gov. Orval E. Faubus who reiterated his stand against a cut in the National Guard and John A. Lang Jr., deputy of the Air Force for Reserve and ROTC affairs.

Conservation
Projects Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office held today that the state Geological and Conservation Commission is authorized to work up a plan for physical development of Arkansas and to receive and spend federal funds for the project.

The opinion went to State Geologist Norman F. Williams who said it was needed as a part of an application for federal matching funds.

The Arkansas Legislature has appropriated $25,000 for the project which can be matched on a two for one basis by the federal government.

In a separate opinion, the attorney general ruled that a school director can do business with the school only when purchases are made through open competitive bids.

The opinion went to Carway
School Supt. C. C. Rottion.

Bell Wants P. B.
Rate Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Pine Bluff has asked state Public Service Commission for permission to increase rates at Pine Bluff.

Art Moore, district manager for the company, said there are now more than 21,900 telephones in the Pine Bluff exchange, placing it in the PSC's Rate Group 7. This takes in all exchanges serving not less than 17,000 nor more than 29, 999 telephones.

Moore said the new grouping will increase one-party residence rates 25 cents a month.
Business phone rates will be increased $1. The new classification will not affect two-party residence phones or extension sets.

plans to build a $200,000 multi-wall bag plant in Pine Bluff.

De Vere Dierks Jr., vice president of Dierks Forests, Inc., announced the plans. The plant will be constructed on property adjacent to the present mill near Pine Bluff.

Completion of the plant is scheduled about Nov. 1. About 40 persons will be employed.

7 Airmen Die in Crash of Transport

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A C47 transport plane crashed and burned Sunday, killing seven Air Force men.

An Air Force board of inquiry today begins the task of examining the charred remains of the plane at the Greensboro-High Point Airport in search of clues to the cause of the crash.

The board was flown here from Pope Air Force Base near Fayetteville, N.C., only hours after the plane smashed into the turf 100 feet from the airport.

There were no survivors.

Pope AFB identified the dead as:

Capt. R. J. Rice, 27, the pilot,
Fort Walton Beach, Fla.
Capt. David L. Murphy, 30, co-pilot, Bloomfield, Neb.
Capt. Thomas D. Carter, 27, navigator, Helena, Ark.
Sgt. Bernard P. Terrien, 32, engineer, Gillette, Wis.
Lt. D. J. Hughes, 28, a passenger, Fort Walton Beach, Fla.
Capt. Robert H. Sanford, 34, a passenger, Greensboro, N.C.
Sgt. Preston Presley, age unavailable, service address APO 128, en route on emergency leave to Alcoa, Tenn.

The Air Force said the plane was on a routine flight. The C47, a military version of the DC3, left its home base, Hurlburt Field in Politics Let Factions

Get Together

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — American political parties are like popular fronts that let factions gang up under one tent and one label and, in public, gloss over their differences.

This doesn't solve the problem of how to achieve unity on the issues—so the public can know what to expect when they proclaim a party program—but it keeps them in business.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower had his hands full with his own divided Republicans when he was in office. President Kennedy is having the same trouble with his Democrats.

Kennedy ignored the desertion from his ranks when the House Rule Committee where Democrats outnumber Republicans 10 to 5—voted to kill his idea for a new department of urban affairs and housing.

It was wrecked because four Southern Democrats joined the five Republicans to vote against it.
Kennedy ignored what the Democrats did, blistered the Republicans and promptly proposed establishment of the urban department through his Reorganization Act powers.

Likewise last week the Republicans, whose only real unity is in trying to beat the Democrats, blithely skipped over their own divisions to criticize the opposition.

Speakers at the dinners which both parties hold are usually long on generalities and short on specifics.

Eisenhower pointed out, rather ruefully it seemed, that in the past 30 years the Republicans have held the presidency only eight years and control of Congress only four.

"Why, with so much to offer that is logical and sound does the electorate choose to buy the inferior product of the opposition?"
he asked. The main answer lay in faulty "sales tactics" by the Republicans, he contended.

New York's Gov. Nelson A.
Rockefeller accused Kennedy of fakery in blaming the Republicans for killing the department of urban affairs instead of pointing a finger at the Democrats who broke ranks to block him in the House Rules Committee.

Rockefeller said it was a subterfuge to bypass the states and "gain direct political control over the nation's big cities." Democrats answered Rockefeller on this in a hurry, saying that when he was President Eisenhower's chairman of an advisory committee on governmental organization, Rockefeller had recommended creating a similar department of urban affairs.

It was Rockefeller himself who best illustrated division among Republicans.

When he started to speak at a fund raising dinner in Des Moines —over a closed TV circuit—some Republicans at a dinner in Wash-

Florida, last Friday.

It left McGuire Air Force Base,
N.J., Sunday, stopped at Philadelphia and flew to Greensboro.
The Federal Aviation Flight Service station at Knoxville, Tenn., said the plane was en route to Knoxville.

At Greensboro, the plane paused briefly, stopping but one of the two engines. Witnesses said the pilot took off down the 6,000 foot runway and was some 100 feet off the ground when an engine stalled.

The plane cartwheeled, its right wing scratched the runway, and the C47 burst into flames.

Negro Under House Eludes
L. R. Police

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock police are still pondering the whereabouts of a 31-year-old Negro who ducked under an apartment house Friday and disappeared.

Late Saturday night two small officers slithered under the apartment building in a belly assault on the hiding spot of Carl Sanders, a burglary suspect.

Police had guarded the house for two days after Sanders ducked through a small hole Friday when officers attempted to arrest him for two Hot Springs burglaries.

"We don't know where he went,
or how he went," Lt. J. H. Shirley said. "But we covered every yard under that house and he's not there."

The neat building, located in a large Negro neighborhood, has two openings in the foundation, in addition to the hole Sanders slid through.

Police have guarded the openings diligently but to no avail.

Spring HNW HD Club Meets

The Spring Hill Home Demonstration Club held its regular monthly meeting Feb. 2 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Howard Garner. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Roy Nations. Mrs. Vernon McMurtrey led the group in singing and the club creed. Mrs. Garner gave the devotional followed by prayer by Mrs. Warren Butler. Roll call was answered by "Where I Met My Husband."

Under old business it was decided to send another box of clothing to the children's Colony at Conway, this being the club's project for the year.

Under new business, the club decided to order greeting cards for making money. A motion was introduced by Mrs. Garner and seconded by Mrs. Butler to order the cards. A motion was also made to hold a bake sale on Saturday morning, Feb. 10, in Hope.

The clothing leader, Mrs. Roy Nations, gave some interesting and helpful hints on remodeling old clothes.

The hostess entertained with two games, prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Beasley and Mrs. Butler.

Refreshments of cake and cold drinks were served to five members. The March meeting will be with Mrs. Johnny Wright, on March 2.

Bridge Club Meets Friday

The home of Mrs. C. C. Lewis was the scene of a local bridge club meeting on Friday, Feb. 2. The two tables of players included one guest, Mrs. Ed Russell of Lexington, Ky.

Winning prizes for their high scores were Mrs. Tom Kinser and Mrs. C. P. Tolleson. The hostess served a salad plate and ice cream for refreshments.

Music Club Officers Entertained Mrs. Talbot Feild Jr., president of the Southwest District, Arkansas Federation of Music Clubs, entertained with a luncheon Friday at her home for district officers, club president and representatives from each club in the district.

Violins, greenery and mixed bouquets were seen in the home. Pink rosebuds in cut-glass centered the dining table, where covers were laid for 12. The purpose of the meeting was to plan the state AFMC meeting April 5-6 at which the SW District will be hostess.

Those at the luncheon included Mrs. J. T. Luck and Mrs. Otis Turner of Arkadelphia; Mrs. J. F. ## Fatalities in Arkansas Reach 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A car struck a hog on state highway 82 near Crossett late Saturday, killing an 10-year-old girl and bringing Arkansas' fatality toll for the week to 10.

Wilma E. Barnett of Crossett died when the car hit the animal, careened off the highway and landed against a tree. Miss Barnett was thrown from the car.

Five persons died in traffic accidents, in Arkansas last week, three were shot to death, one died of exposure and one died after being hit over the head with a baseball bat.

The driver of the car in the Crossett accident, Raymond Farrell, and another passenger, Bort Johnson, both of Crossett, were slightly injured.

A Negro woman was shot to death on a street corner in Texarkana Sunday. Police said Della Ray Richardson, 23, shot a Negro man, Roosevelt Callaway, 29, three times in the stomach, then Callaway grabbed the 22 pistol and shot her.

Callaway was in critical condition. Both are from Texarkana.

Jimmy Spann, 23, of Hensley, was killed by a blast from a 12 gauge shotgun Sunday and Austin Horn, 41, in whose home at Hensley the shooting occurred, was jailed on an open charge.

Farris Wilburn, Negro of near Marvell, was shot to death after an argument at a grocery store one mile south of Marvell Saturday.

Robert L. Palmer, Negro of Snell, Ark., and Junior Beasley of near Marvell, were held on open charges.

Red Protests Delivered to Atty.-Gen.

By CONRAD FINK

TOKYO (AP)—Three Japanese Communist groups delivered protests today for U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The Japanese Reds, told Kennedy's schedule was tight, obligingly delivered their written protests against "oppression of American Communists" to a minor official of the U.S. Embassy.

David Osborn, U.S. Embassy first secretary, said the attorney general hadn't seen the protests. "They haven't been translated yet so we don't know exactly what they say," Osborn said.

Although Japan's leftists have announced no plans for demonstrations against Kennedy's visit, reports circulated that leftist students were planning a demonstration Thursday at Waseda University, where Kennedy is scheduled to meet student groups. One official of the Kennedy welcoming committee said a special police escort had not been arranged.

Kennedy met Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda today and assured him that future U.S. economic policy under his brother's direction will not neglect Japan.

Economic issues have caused some grumbling in Japan came up in the first official call of the U.S. attorney general's six-day visit to Japan.

David Osborn, U.S. Embassy first secretary, said the proposed 9½-cent a pound surcharge on the cotton content textiles the United States imports was stressed in Kennedy's talk with Ikeda.

Kennedy assured Ikeda that the trend in U.S. policy is definitely toward lowering tariffs, Osborn said.

Kennedy also told Ikeda that President Kennedy's intention to seek closer ties with the European Economic Community does not mean that Japan will be frozen out of the lucrative American market.

Kennedy told the Japanese leader the United States is seeking favorable trade treatment of Japan as well as itself in the EEC.

Kennedy, an expert and tireless campaigner, whirled about Tokyo all morning on behalf of his brother's New Frontier program.

In quick succession, Kennedy visited the prime minister, Foreign Minister Zenaro Kosaka, Justice Minister Koshiro Ueki and both houses of the Diet.

Everywhere Kennedy went he was greeted by crowds of eager young people.

Mrs. Kennedy visited a Catholic English language school and had a reunion with Mother Anno Stoeple, the president of the academy, who taught her at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in New York City. She also visited a crippled children's home.

Ohio Has High Toll of Deaths

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—At least 42 persons were victims of accidental deaths in Ohio over the weekend. Traffic accidents accounted for 30 of the total, one of the highest ever recorded in the state for a non-holiday, 34-hour weekend.

President Woodrow Wilson called the first meeting of the League of Nations in 1920.

HE'S THE EXCEPTION—Pier Angeli makes with the hand-talk for her fiance, Italian singer-orchestra leader Armando Trovajoli, 44, in Rome, Italy. Pier's the gal who said "No more singers," after her divorce from singer Vic Damone.

DOROTHY DIX

Thrice-Married Woman Ever An Optimist

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

DEAR HELEN: My parents will disown me if I return to my third husband but—I love him and that is why I write this letter. At 35 I have three broken marriages to discredit.

The first time I married against my parents' wishes, a boy of different faith. "You've made your bed, lie on it," said my father. Neither he nor my mother came to the wedding. But they took me and my six-week-old baby girl in after my two years of heaven and hell. That husband and I were too young to know what it was all about. The difference in religions didn't help; his folks working on him and my parents' hatred of his church influenced me and so we divorced.

Five years later I remarried. This time there was no opposition but—Mama begged to keep my little girl. Because I lived near and could be with Baby every day, I let her. That second marriage was one big mistake too. My husband, a good-time Charlie, had a business that kept him on the road, activities like gambling, drink and women to fill in the spare time. We had a baby, another girl, so I stuck it out for a year then, when things kept getting worse instead of better, I left, vowing to by-pass matrimony from then on. Again, my folks gave me shelter and loved the second baby as much as the first.

But after all, it was Mama's home, not mine. I longed desperately for a home of my own. Six years later I found myself again promising to "love, honor and obey" a guy whom I loved madly, passionately. He had been married twice before too, so we felt we'd had enough experience to know what we wanted. To escape the influence of my parents, however loving, we moved to Florida. Mama wouldn't let me take the girls but I was so in love with my husband, I didn't care. He and I were blessed with a daughter of our own a year later.

Looking back, that was the happiest period of my life. The people of the small town where we lived asked him to help build up a little country church congregation. He did and became Sunday School superintendent. Jealous of his success, a certain faction ousted him.

Completely disillusioned at this treatment from so-called Christians he started drinking and lost his job. We were scraping the bottom of the barrel when he landed a high-priced position only 130 miles from our home town up north. We got our bills paid, thank goodness, before the money went to his head. It was the old story: bar-hopping, girls and gambling. I packed up and went back to Mama and Papa. That was eight months ago.

Now, my husband is working again in Florida and wants me to join him. My parents will kick me out for keeps if I go. What's more I can't take the children. My parents are getting old—Mama is 68, Papa 72. I know they've done a lot for me and the kids but—I just can't let this marriage crack up too. What should I do?—Baffled

Dear Baffled: The repetitious pattern of your various marriages indicates that a bad habit has got you. Change your thinking. Resolve to make this last try permanent. Stop letting your parents shoulder responsibility for you. Instead of immediately flying back to your husband's arms, give yourself and him a chance to prove you two are capable of building a happy life together. Make this something to work toward. Since your long-suffering parents are still willing to take in you and the girls, stay with them for the present, find a job and start repaying the money you owe them.

Be a mother, not a problem to your little daughters. Encourage your husband to stick to his course, too. Had he character he would have fought the church people who ousted him. Only the weak seek refuge in drink. Given the worthwhile goal of creating a permanent home for you and the children, your husband could yet prove himself a man. It won't be easy for either of you but—the right road is the hard road.

Dear Helen: My three-year-old son makes life miserable for me by throwing down everything I pick up: toys, dishes, clothes, food. As a consequence, our home is a mess. I've tried spanking him, making him sit in the corner, taking away his toys, cutting off the cookie supply and forcing him to put back things but to no avail. Have you any suggestions?—Upset Mother

Dear Upset: Babies and puppies are very much alike. Fundamentally, they want to please. Praise your little son when he does right and let him know by your tone of voice when he has done wrong. Coax him to tidy up as he goes. Catch him in the act and show him what you want by doing it yourself, then letting him repeat it. Make it a game. The process is slow but rewarding. Patience, repetition and love is the answer.

This is a memo to "Confused." "Two in Trouble" and "Worried": You girls have several alternatives: marriage (not always advisable); keep your babies even though they suffer from the stigma of being nameless; or put them out for adoption. It is usually wise to tell your parents but, of course, harder. Thank heaven that society as a whole is more tolerant than it used to be. Every state has special agencies equipped to humanely care for girls in your plight. Check with your local welfare agency or, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will forward a list of those in, or adjacent to, your town.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine care of this newspaper, and be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Sex Education For Teenagers."

Five Die, Seven Hurt in Wreck

NASHVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Five persons died and seven others were injured Sunday night when a small foreign car and another auto collided on U.S. Highway 460 eight miles east of here.

State police said all four occupants of the small car were killed. They were Ronald Spengler, 22, his wife, Elaine, 22, Dennis Stager, 22, and his fiance, Janice Kay Bridges, 22. All lived at Granite City, Ill.

Also killed was Joyceelyn Denice Tracey, 7, who was riding in an auto with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Tracey of Mount Vernon, Ill., and six other relatives.

Chess Champion

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Richard Long of Fort Smith, won the Arkansas state chess championship for the second straight year in the Arkansas Chess Association tournament Sunday. He also is the Iowa and Alabama state champion. Long, a 21-year-old Vanderbilt University student, scored 4½ of a possible 10 points.

Diseases of the heart and arteries account for more than one-half of the total mortality rate of the United States.

Most People Don't Know Their Worth

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Here's one comforting thought today in a world beset by problems: You are richer than you think!

The thought is put forth by a Chicago banker who is president of the Trust Division of the American Bankers Association, now holding its annual midwinter trust conference here. He is Thomas H. Beacom, a senior vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

He doubts if you really know how much you're worth alive—nor how much you'd be worth dead. As a banker he, naturally, thinks you should find out right away.

"Most people are so close to what they own they fail to realize how well off they are," Beacom holds. "Many even are inclined to think their bank books are all there is to their estates."

He cites as an example a man who may have $30,000 in savings at the local bank or in U.S. Savings Bonds, and feel he's worth very little indeed. But the man owns his own home, probably worth $15,000, life insurance valued at $20,000, a car that may bring $1,000 if sold.

That adds up to $39,000 right there. But Beacom says that isn't all. Furniture, household appliances, jewelry, objects d'art and even personal clothing should be included—things that most people somehow rarely consider part of their wealth.

The moral? Because too few realize how much they're worth, too many die without leaving a will. Beacom adds that, worse yet, three out of ten wills in existence are outmoded or were drawn up without benefit of estate planning.

Without a will, the state steps in to dispose of your property, perhaps in a way you wouldn't approve, and certainly with legal fees and papers that eat into the total.

So check up now and see how much you're really worth, Beacom advises. He says estates of $60,000 and more have increased in number 300 per cent since 1844. And estates of that size are large enough to put you into the arms of the inheritance tax collector.

So here's what the Chicago banker thinks you ought to do: First, make a household inventory, room by room. Services of a professional appraiser may be a worthwhile investment. Such a list helps not only in making a will, but also in estimating how much fire and casualty insurance you should own or in offering quick evidence in case of loss or fire.

Second, find out your net worth by measuring your assets against your liabilities. Assets include everything you own, including the cash value of your life insurance. Liabilities include the home mortgage or other real estate mortgages or liens, car loan, money due on furniture and appliances, personal loan balances and loans against life insurance, open accounts and current bills unpaid. Subtract the liabilities from your total assets. The result is your net worth, alive.

Next, figure your worth dead. Subtract the cash value of your life insurance from your net worth and then add the face value of your policies.

Beacom suggests you then talk to your local banker if you want help in planning an estate, or perhaps in setting up a trust fund to be managed for you or your heirs by a professional.

Finally, make a will and keep it up to date. Go to a qualified lawyer, if you want to be sure of avoiding any technical error that could lead a court to invalidate or misinterpret a will you might try to write yourself.

Remember: you're worth more than you may think, so be careful.

Body Is Found

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The body of Joseph Alton Sims, 51, of El Dorado, a patient who disappeared from the Fort Rooks Veterans Hospital Jan. 22, was found in woods near the hospital Sunday. Doctors said he died of natural causes.

It is estimated the U. S. Population will be 244 million by 1975.

State Building Show Decrease

NEW YORK (AP)—December contracts for future construction in Arkansas totaled $19,365,000, a decrease of 56 per cent from the previous December, the F. W. Dodge Corp., reported today.

A 77 per cent decline in heavy engineering contracts caused the overall decline, according to the construction news agency. Heavy engineering contracts totaled $8,430,000.

Residential construction was up 104 per cent to $6,501,000 and commercial building was up 27 per cent to $4,435,000.

The Dodge report showed contracts for the year ending Dec. 31 totaled $281,270,000 a decrease of two per cent from the preceding year.

The 12-month total showed non-residential construction down 28 per cent to $65,044,000, residential down one per cent to $79,11,000 and heavy engineering up 18 per cent to $138,114,000.

DeGaulle Has Deal Cooking for Algeria

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP) - Bristling with security forces, France and Algeria waited tensely for President Charles de Gaulle's report tonight over radio and television on his progress toward ending the seven-year rebellion in the North African territory.

Thousands of riot police, 32 tanks, 100 squad cars and light armored vehicles waited on the alert on the outskirts of Paris. Troops took strategic positions in key Algerian cities to counter the threat of an uprising by the underground Secret Army Organization of Europeans fighting to keep Algeria French.

For days high sources have leaked the word that secret negotiations between De Gaulle and the Algerian rebels toward a cease-fire are well advanced. Few observers, however, believed that the time had arrived when the French president, who has dedicated himself to settling the rebellion, could announce a peace settlement.

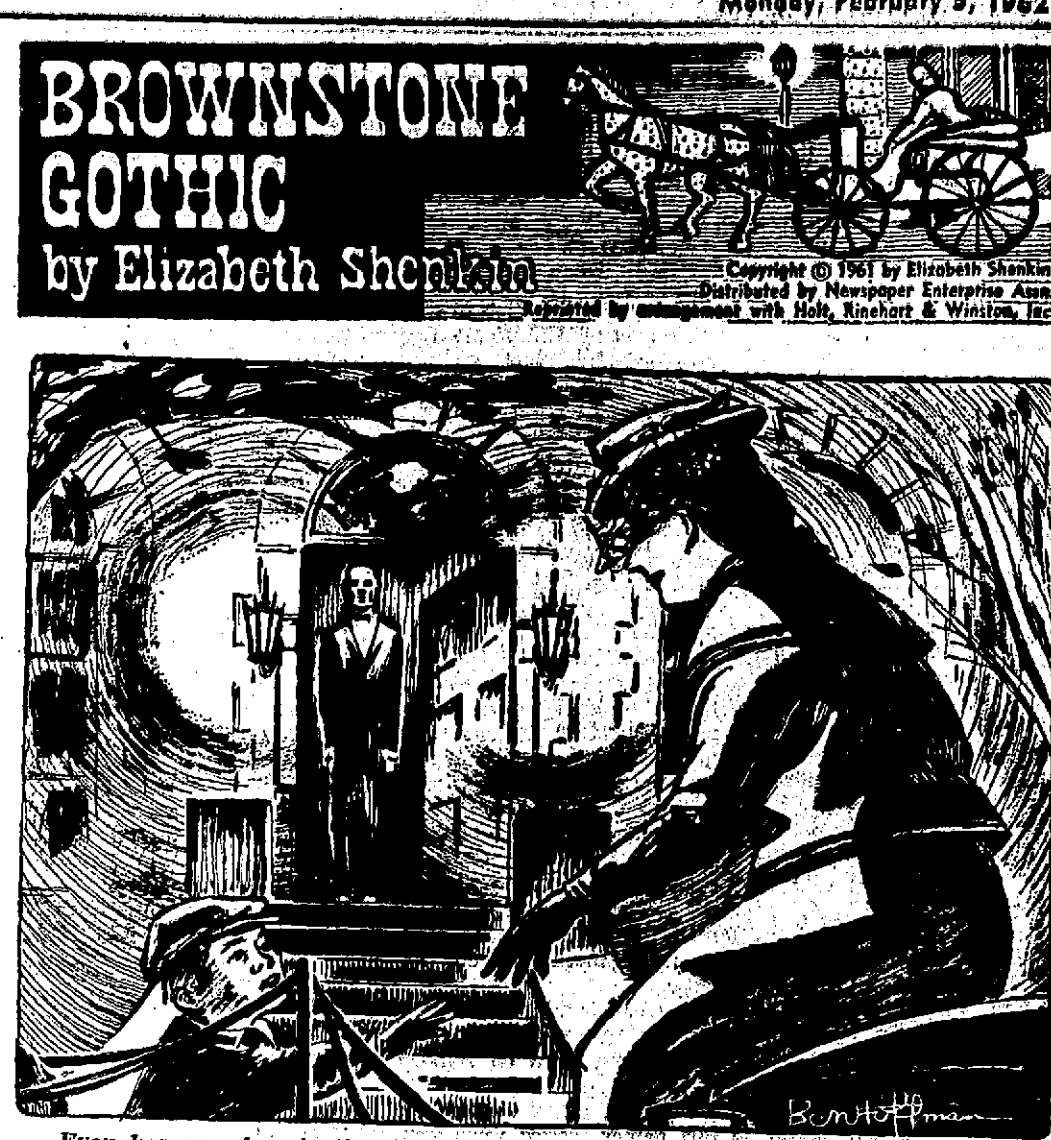

De Gaulle is a leader who keeps his own counsel. But there was growing speculation that he would express guarded optimism about the prospects for an Algerian settlement.

He is also expected to denounce the rightist Secret Army and make another rallying call for support by declaring his Fifth Republic, which grew out of the Algerian crisis, has brought the country stability and prosperity.

Leaders of the Algerian rebel government were meeting in Tunis to study reports of its emissaries who have been holding secret sessions with the French on a cease-fire and steps toward independence after 131 years of French rule.

Should the rebel hierarchy approve the broad lines of a settlement reportedly reached by negotiators, final approval must still be given by the National Revolutionary Council which serves as a rebel parliament.

There were reports that should the rebel leaders turn down the cease-fire terms reportedly agreed on at the negotiating level, De Gaulle will go ahead without them to set up a provisional regime to chart Algeria's road to independence.

Chapter 1

Hilda just had time to see and comprehend, the increasingly imposing size of the passing houses, before the carriage turned into a wide, curving driveway and drew to a stop.

The illustrated papers, and even her own imagination, had not exaggerated the size of Russell House. The towering brownstone mansion seemed to stretch out endlessly into the night.

In front of her a flight of steps gleamed in the light of two gas torches on either side of a great oaken doorway which now swung open. A man in butler's dress stood at the portal. No expression crossed his face as he waited for Addie and Hilda to mount.

At last, the top step was gained, and the butler acknowledged their presence.

"Mrs. Thorne?" His tone wasn't precisely impertinent, but Hilda thought it was not the tone he would use with other visitors.

"Yes, I am Mrs. Thorne," she answered with careful politeness. "And this is Master Adam." She propelled Addie gently forward. Addie held out his hand, as he had been taught.

Ignoring the little boy's hand, the man stepped back.

"Come in," he said. "I will inform Madam you are here."

They stepped into an enormous reception hall. The butler crossed the marble floor and disappeared through one leaf of a pair of double doors.

What was left of Hilda's scanty self-assurance deserted her. She had a sudden picture of how shabby and out of place he and Addie must look, standing in the middle of the intricately patterned marble floor, while high over their heads a ceiling that seemed of cathedral proportions arched over a wide balcony and curving staircase. Along the walls, large white marble Roman figures were interspersed with dim canvases in heavy, gold-carved frames. The staring statues seemed possessed of a waiting, living unfriendliness.

She made an effort to smile when she looked down and saw Addie's frightened eyes.

"This is your great-uncle Russell's home, dear." She removed his sailor cap, smoothed his dark curls and hastily wiped away a

Deadline Is Past, Earth Still Here

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Serpent Rahu had his fun but the world—beset as it may be with earthly troubles—was still intact today.

"Doomsday weekend" passed without the horrible calamities predicted by Hindu soothsayers that sent millions of frightened Indian and Nepalese believers to prayer meetings.

The evil Rahu swallowed the sun as predicted today. But things came back to normal after an eclipse lasting about three minutes.

Hindu astrologers had predicted great calamities when six planets—Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Earth—moved into conjunction with each other and the sun and the moon over the weekend. It happens only every century or two.

For astronomers it was an intriguing scientific phenomenon. But for millions who believe in the influence of the stars it was frightening. Some feared the worst may still come.

Keith Robertson, director of Britain's 1,000-member Aetherius Society, spent a cold and rainy night with scores of his followers atop a mountain praying.

The path of the eclipse lay over the South Pacific, and New Guinea was plunged into darkness.

"It was so dark I could not see the numbers of my camera," said Jim Huxley, editor of the New Guinea Times.

Dogs barked, roosters crowed and native papuans on the island hid in their huts until the sun shone again.

Teams of foreign scientists gathered at Lae, on the east coast of New Guinea, and a Japanese team reported complete success in observing the eclipse.

In Ahmedabad, capital of Gujarat State, about 300,000 Hindus attended propitiatory fire sacrifices conducted by 1,200 Brahmin priests.

Indian airlines operated one flight to Bombay without a single passenger. Other planes in the area flew almost empty.

Katmandu, capital of Nepal, looked like a ghost town except around the Hindu temples. All shops were closed and streets deserted. Fearful of earthquakes that would bring their homes tumbling down on them, thousands of Nepalese took shelter in soot smudge she had missed on the train. She wondered if his coat looked as small for him to others as it did to her, and she hoped his darned black stocking wouldn't show.

"Was that him?" Addie was asking.

"He," she corrected. "No. That was the butler."

"I don't like him," Addie said flatly.

Hilda had no time to say more. She put her black veil back from her face, as the double doors opened.

"This way, Mrs. Thorne, if you please," the butler said.

With a feeling that, for good or ill, this was journey's end, Hilda took Addie's hand and crossed to the open doorway.

A slight, auburn-haired woman was advancing to meet her with a rustle of rich, dark silk. Hilda heard with relief the note of warmth in the clear voice that greeted her.

"My dear, I'm so glad you've arrived. I can't think why Saunders left you standing out there. Do come in!"

Two small hands reached for her own. She let go of Addie's hand to return the gesture, and was suddenly conscious that she had forgotten to take off her gloves. Their worn black showed up plainly against the white, jeweled hands holding hers.

"How do you do, Mrs. Russell?" Her welcome smiled more broadly, an odd, somewhat crooked smile that gave her a charmingly deprecating air. Her skin was fair and her eyes dark, with enormously wide pupils. Though Hilda guessed her to be about 40, the smile and the eyes together gave their owner a look of ingenious youth.

"Yes, I am Judith Russell," she said. "But I hope, though we are only relatives in law, you will call me Aunt Judith."

She didn't wait for an answer, but bent down to Addie.

"And this is my great-nephew!" she said, laughing. "My, you do make me feel old! Will you shake hands, young man?"

Having so lately been rebuffed, Addie glanced up at his mother, saw her encouraging nod and bravely grasped the hand held out to him ducking his head in a nervous little bow.

Her hostess looked up at Hilda, apologetically. "I'm so sorry. I'm afraid I don't know his name."

"Addie," Hilda answered, and as Judith Russell's eyebrows rose a little, she added quickly "That is, his full name is Adam Russell Thorne, but we call him Addie."

Hilda nodded, and Judith Russell went on. "Let me introduce the rest of your family."

She stepped aside and for the first time, Hilda was aware of a man and a girl were also in the room. The man was about 50. He was tall and thin, and his unexpected paunch was made more evident by the expanse of gold chain across his vest.

"This is your uncle - in law, George Russell," his wife said.

Hilda, who had stripped off her gloves by now, felt only a light touch of chilly fingers before they were withdrawn.

"Welcome," he said. "Hope trip not too difficult."

The negligent handshake and disjointed words brought back Hilda's uncertainty. She struggled into a confused speech of thanks and assurances about the trip, when she was kindly interrupted.

"You haven't met your Cousin Jenny, my dear," Judith Russell said.

A slight girl, a little taller than average, had risen and was looking at Hilda with a friendly, but clearly appraising gaze. She had an unusual kind of quiet beauty. Hilda thought, in spite of the prevailing mode for brides and

Fire Burns Path Six Miles Long

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP) - A prairie fire burned a swath one to two miles wide and six miles long before it was stopped at the Cimarron River northeast of here Sunday.

The fire started on the W. H. Lepper farm south of Kismet. It destroyed a barn and garage there and raced on, burning four other farm homes as winds up to 40 miles an hour whipped the flames. The fire covered 8,000 to 10,000 acres of grassland in southwest Kansas.

"Yeah, Cap'n Cook'll like that—now what's the Hawaiian word for 'twist'? Oh, yes—Hula!"

Even her own imagination had not exaggerated the size of the Russell House.

bangs, her hair was parted in the middle and drawn into two smooth black wings on her cheeks. It came to Hilda that Jenny and Addie not only looked like each other, but they both remarkably resembled her late mother-in-law. Impulsively, she spoke her thought aloud.

The room seemed to tighten with silence. Then Jenny's face, lighted with a mischievous smile, "No one's ever told me I looked like my aunt. I'm not supposed to mention her, you know, but I've heard she was accounted a beauty, and I thank you."

Judith Russell said: "I'm sure Hilda is anxious to get settled. Will you ring for Saunders, George?"

It wasn't Saunders who appeared, however, but quite an old woman, clad from chin to toe in unrelieved black. Her white hair was scraped back from her face so tightly that it seemed to pull up her eyebrows. She stood in the doorway, gnarled hands folded over the ring of keys she wore at her waist.

"Oh, it's you Miss Maggy." Judith Russell looked a little annoyed. "Where is Saunders?"

"In the dining room at this hour, Mrs. Russell." The old voice implied that anyone should have known this.

"Oh, of course," Judith Russell seemed not to notice the tone. "This is Mrs. Thorne, and here is Master Adam."

Miss Maggy's sharp eyes were already regarding Hilda with unconcealed curiosity. A slight nod was all the acknowledgment she gave the introduction before she transferred her inspection to Addie who promptly hid his face in his mother's skirts.

Judith Russell gave Hilda her sideways smile. "Miss Maggy is our housekeeper. She's been with the family many years."

The remark seemed to be both an apology and an explanation. And Hilda, realizing the housekeeper's good will could be important to her, searched for the right thing to say.

"I remember my mother-in-law speaking of you often, Miss Maggy. You were her nurse when she was young, weren't you?"

"What's past is past, and best left alone," the old lady asserted, moving her gaze to George Russell.

A look passed between master and servant that made embarrassed color rush to Hilda's cheeks.

They trailed the housekeeper up the marble staircase, across the balustraded balcony, and up a broad flight of oak-banistered, richly carpeted stairs.

A long hall lay ahead of them lit by only one glass-enclosed flame. Miss Maggy's shadow stretched out darkly ahead of her. Frightened and still whimpering, Addie dragged back, and Hilda began to feel she was struggling to move in a nightmare.

At the end of the hall, the housekeeper stopped and opened a door.

"Your room," she said stepping inside.

"But, Addie..." She began, turning to Miss Maggy, who was pulling heavy fringed drapes across the window. "Since his father died, Addie has always slept with me."

"Not in this house," Miss Maggy's tone allowed no arguments. "He'll have his own room across the hall. Molly-coddle the child and you'll spoil the man."

"But, couldn't we arrange it, just for tonight?" Hilda pleaded. "He's so tired, and... and everything's so strange."

"If he's tired enough, he'll sleep." Miss Maggy went to the door. "I'll send a maid to take care of him."

She was gone.

Palmer Wins Palm Springs Golf Meet

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The recent off-repeated query, "What's wrong with Arnold Palmer's golf game?" seems pretty well squelched.

Palmer, playing like the Palmer of National Open and Masters fame in 1960, put on a dazzling birdie hunt to win the $50,000 Palm Springs Classic Sunday. The victory was worth $5,000.

He climaxed the 5-round, 90-hole marathon with a 3-under par 69 for a total score of 342, 17 blows under par for the long haul at the plush par 72 Bermuda Dunes Country Club and four other courses used in the tournament.

Palmer started the round three strokes behind the leader, Gene Littler. He ran off a string of five successive birdies starting on the fifth hole, caught Littler on the eighth and went two ahead of Gene on the ninth.

This was Palmer's second win in the three $50,000 desert classics and his first victory since the British Open last July.

Palmer leads the tournament gypsies to the $35,000 Phoenix, Ariz., Open. Then he will vacation until the Baton Rouge, La., Open, which he won last year.

Player left Sunday night for his Johannesburg, South Africa, home where he'll rest about five weeks. Player's 71 for 352 netted $525.

Happiest man was former U.S. Open champion Dick Mayer. He got to keep the entire $50,000 bonus he earned with a hole-in-one Saturday. There were no more aces so Mayer didn't have to split the money.

Seat cushions for automobiles and trucks consumed an estimated 10 million pounds of latex foam rubber in 1961.

College Cage Play in Last Five Weeks

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball heads into its last five weeks tonight, the final third of the season. It's the time when conference competitions have turned into real races, when the elite among the independents begin to show, when a single mistake can wreck a team's record.

With only a couple of exceptions, the major conferences are having tight title scraps that show every indication of going down to the wire.

Big Ten—Mighty Ohio State has beaten everybody in sight, including Northwestern 97-61 Saturday night, but hasn't been able to stake off dogged Wisconsin. The Buckeyes are 6-0, the Badgers 5-0 with a head-on meeting not on tap until March 3 at Wisconsin.

Wisconsin beat Minnesota Saturday, 94-88.

Missouri Valley—Bradley (7-1), Cincinnati (6-2) and Wichita (5-2) aren't likely to settle their three-way fight until late this month when Bradley and Wichita take on the Bearcats in back-to-back games at Cincinnati. Saturday night it was Cincinnati 77, North Texas 50 and Bradley 72, St. Louis 57.

Big Eight—Colorado (5-0) has beaten Kansas State (5-1) once and they next tangle on State's floor March 3. The Buffaloes whipped Oklahoma State 54-39 Saturday night and K-State downed Nebraska 72-53.

Southeastern—Kentucky (7-0) far ahead, trailed by Tulane (3-0) and Mississippi State (5-1). Mississippi State plays at Tulane tonight, and both these contenders have games at Kentucky later.

Mississippi State beat Louisiana State 87-66 and Tulane swamped Mississippi 107-77 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast—Duke (7-1) projected its lead by trimming North Carolina (79-57) Saturday while Wake Forest (6-2) moved into second with a 83-82 decision over Clemson. This conference has a post season tournament to decide its champion and representative in the NCAA tourney.

Southern—West Virginia (10-1) again the class of the league, went non-conference Saturday and shaded North Carolina State in overtime 82-81. The Mountaineers were knocked out in last year's season-end conference tourney, but don't look for it to happen again.

Skyline—Colorado State University (7-1) stormed into the lead by stunning Utah (6-1) 74-59 Saturday night, while Utah State (6-1) edged Denver 83-79 in overtime. With Utah out of post season play because of an NCAA penalty, the Utah State game at CSU probably is the title key.

Big Five—UCLA (4-0) upended nationally ranked Southern California (3-2) Friday night 73-59 and has a home-and-home series against the Trojans weekend after next. The pressure is on USC.

Southwest—A scramble as usual with Texas Tech (5-1), Texas A&M and Rice (both 4-2) and a couple of others right behind. Texas Tech kept in front by clipping Arkansas 60-64 Saturday night.

Ivy League—Cornell got toppled by Dartmouth 60-58 and Yale squeezed by Princeton 60-58 in overtime, leaving the Big Red and the Eli tied at 5-1. Each has eight conference games left, including two between themselves.

Ohio Valley—Western Kentucky (5-1) holds one victory over runner-up Morehead (6-2) and they'll play again Feb. 19. Morehead smothered East Tennessee 96-67 Saturday night, while Western Kentucky took an 86-78 licking by DePaul out of the conference.

WCAC—Loyola (3-0), St. Mary's (2-0) and Pepperdine (2-1), none active in the conference Saturday, have a flock of games among themselves before the schedule is over.

Yankee—Massachusetts (3-1) tightened things up by upsetting Rhode Island (4-1) 77-69 Saturday night. They square off again Tuesday night.

Mid-American—Bowling Green (7-0) routed Miami (Ohio) 94-61 Saturday night, has beaten every club in the conference at least once, and appears the powerhouse of the league.

Burder—Another apparent runaway for Arizona State University (5-0). The Sun Devils have only three conference games left, including one at home against New Mexico State tonight. They beat Texas Western 68-62 Saturday.

Mid-Atlantic—Delaware (5-0), Lafayette (4-0) and St. Joseph's (4-0) in a logjam at the top, each with one game against the other, starting Saturday night with St. Joe's at Delaware.

There is a moderately long list of leading independents but only Duquesne (16-2) is ranked, listed No. 7 nationally. The Dukes did-

Bobcats Win Over Malvern, Kittens Lose

By VINCE FOSTER

Coach Billy Mitchell's Bobcats kept their hold on second place in district 4AA by whipping Malvern 66-57 there, after trailing nine points at the half. In the preliminary game, Malvern took the Hope "B" team 32-19.

Malvern was red hot the first quarter and took a 22-13 lead and stretched it to 32-22 at the half as Jameson sacked 14 points. The Cats outscored the hosts 21-10 in the third quarter and led 44-42 going into the final period and outscored Malvern 22-15 in that period, winning 66-57.

Danny Hatfield was high scorer for the Cats with 21 points. Followed by Powell with 18, Murphy 17, Porterfield and Roberts 4 each. This victory gives Hope a 6-1 conference record and they stand 13-6 for the season.

In the low scoring "B" game, Hope trailed throughout the game as the score by quarters was 9-5, 21-8, 25-12 and 32-19. Jones and McDowell were high for the Cats with 5 each. McFarly had 3, Thrash, Wassell and Purdie scored 2 each.

In the first seven games of district 4AA, the Cats have outscored their opponents 464-358. They have outscored their opponents in field goals 160-139 and have hit 82-140 free throws to their opponents 80-139.

Tuesday at Jones Field House the "B" team and the girls teams play Texarkana. Then Friday the Cats meet the league leading Smackover Bucks here, the Kittens also play. Saturday the Cats and Kittens travel to Camden for a pair of district bouts with Camden.

Fayetteville Still Tops in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fayetteville still holds first place in The Associated Press Arkansas school boy basketball poll, and a fight between Little Rock and Jonesboro has developed for second place.

Hall got 77 points to 70 for Jonesboro in this week's poll of the AP's board of nine sports writers. Hall lost its first Big Nine Conference game to Little Rock last week and Jonesboro beat Pine Bluff Saturday night.

North Little Rock moved into fourth place with the victory over Hall. Blytheville climbed from 11th place up to fifth this week.

White Hall dropped two notches to sixth place this week after suffering its first loss in 25 games.

Pine Bluff is seventh and Little Rock Central is eighth. Smackover and Harrison are tied for ninth and 10th places.

Fayetteville is 16-1 as it races toward the Region 1AA championship and a berth in the state Class AA-AAA tournament.

With White Hall's demise last week, there are no unbeaten schoolboy teams left in the state.

The results of the poll, with first place votes in parentheses and total points, based on 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc., at right:

1. Fayetteville (9) ..... 90
2. Little Rock Ital ..... 77
3. Jonesboro ..... 70
4. North Little Rock ..... 50
5. Blytheville ..... 40
6. White Hall ..... 36
7. Pine Bluff ..... 28
8. Little Rock Central ..... 20
9. Smackover (toe) ..... 16
Harrison (toe) ..... 16

Others in order: Mena, Greene County Tech, El Dorado, Manila, Paragould, Fort Smith, Sparkman, Leachville.

Forgery Was Less Than Satisfactory

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Forgery," Sunday night's NBC "Show of the Week," was based on the 1947 trial of Han van Meegeren, the Dutch artist accused of forging a series of "old masters" so perfect in style that he was able to pass them off on collectors and art experts alike.

Van Meegeren's alleged imitation of the styles of Vermeer and others is so fascinating it is a shame the subject was not made into a documentary.

As a drama it was less than satisfactory because it got all tangled up in observations on the fallibility of art "experts" and the philosophical question of whether a painting, held to be a masterpiece when it was believed to be by Vermeer, became a worthless daub when its real origin became known.

The program took place almost entirely in a courtroom and the plot unraveled in the time-honored TV-style of "Perry Mason"—except that when Perry solves his cases before the bench, the denouement is more clear-cut.

Arthur Kennedy plays the artist with intensity, and others in the case acted with fire and conviction. But the drama itself was flabby.

The weekend's most interesting hour was CBS' Saturday night "Footnote to Fame," an original script by Robert L. Joseph. It was dramatic, all right, but the emphasis was on the forces playing on a rising, ambitious politician faced with the critical vote in a state legislature.

A controversial judge was the subject of impeachment proceedings. The young state senator, a key figure, was surrounded by people who wanted to influence his vote—his assistant, a labor leader, a business leader, a party boss, his wife and father, the judge himself.

We saw the pressures being applied, and the man's reaction to them. Finally we learned how the senator voted. It was an illuminating series of scenes tied to a central theme. It had a big cast and all of them presented sharply defined characterizations. It was a fine hour.

Oklahomans Down Arkansas Boxers

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) —

Fred Mills of McAlester, Okla., top boxer in last year's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions here, slugged out a semifinal decision over Eugene Huff of Fort Smith Saturday night, leading the way into the finals of this year's matches next Saturday night.

Mills will meet Junior Clark of McAlester, who dethroned Ken Dixon of the Arkansas Boys Training School, in the finals of the 135-pound open division.

Fighters from McAlester, Pine Bluff and Fort Smith dominated the open division semifinals. Jerry Sheeks (112 lbs.) and Henry Morning (160) of Pine Bluff won semifinal matches.

Winners of this weekend's finals will go to Memphis Feb. 15-17 for the Mid-South Golden Gloves Tournament.

Porkers Run Out of Steam at the Last

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas ran out of steam and fell to Texas Tech 66-64 here Saturday night, losing a chance to knock the Red Raiders from atop the Southwest Conference basketball race.

With 3:44 on the clock, the Porkers held a one-point edge but a field goal and a free throw by Mac Percival switched the lead to Tech.

Harold Hudgens dropped in a layup pushing the score to 60-56 and Ray Mounts dropped in a field goal giving Tech a six-point lead.

With the score at 66-60, Arkansas' Tommy Boyer landed a field goal and Jim Wilson got two free throws but their efforts weren't enough as the buzzer sounded.

Boyer, the nation's hawk-eye free throw leader, sank two for two while teammate Jerry Carlton had five for seven.

The victory gives Tech a 5-1 conference mark while Arkansas slipped to an even 3-3. An Arkansas victory would have knotted the league race.

Tech struck for 41.3 per cent from the field while the Hogs hit at 38.5 per cent.

On the brighter side, Arkansas controlled the boards 43-35.

away from John," says veteran trainer Jack Semple. "He's a wonderful athlete. But the fiberglass pole makes its appearance and all of a sudden there's a flock of 15-foot pole vaulters around."

"It's like a whip. I used to train (Cornelius) Warmerdam when he used a bamboo pole. I wouldn't be surprised if he could have done 17 feet with one of these new poles."

Retired pole vaulter Don (Tar) zan) Bragg is another disbeliever. "Vaulting," he says, "used to be 60 to 70 per cent the athlete and 30 to 40 per cent the pole. Now it has been completely reversed. The fiberglass pole should be declared illegal."

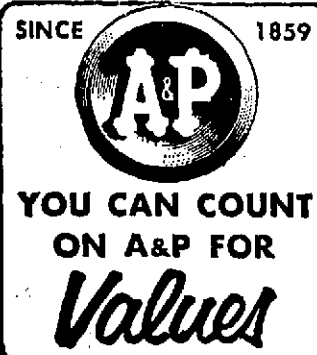

Though Uelses now has the only two recorded 16-foot vaults, the mark is not recognized as a world record. The International Amateur Athletic Federation does not consider indoor records. The pending outdoor world vault standard is 15-10 1/4, set by George Davis last year and equaled by Uelses only nine days ago in Washington.

"He'll do 17 feet some day," said his coach, Aubrey Dooley, a pretty fair vaulter himself, doing 15-5 while at Oklahoma State.

What has been responsible for turning Uelses, born in Berlin, into a champion after being only a mediocre vaulter a year ago?

Uelses himself doesn't have the answer. But he acknowledges that it's been just one year that he's been using a fiberglass pole.

"I don't want to take anything
